FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

(HIGH POINT, NC) – Guy Walters III has been promoted to vice president design and marketing for SLF (formerly Samuel Lawrence Furniture), it was announced today by Joe Keveryn, president of the High Point-based company. SLF is a strategic marketing unit of Home Meridian International.

Walters joined the company in 2005, to head up SLF Signature, the company's upper-end division. Keveryn explained that Walters will now be responsible for the development of product for all of the company's divisions.

“Guy has done an amazing job transforming our SLF Signature product line, creating fashion-forward designs that our customers love. We will now put his talents to use designing products for all of our different price-points,” Keveryn said.

George Revington, president and CEO of Home Meridian, said having a pulse on the trends in the furniture industry is vital in this competitive environment. “While at SLF Signature, Guy has demonstrated an impressive ability to create products that are beautifully designed and offer tremendous value – exactly what our customers want.”

“For someone like me, who has a passion for developing products, SLF is an incredible place to work. It's an adrenalin-filled, fun, creative environment. And because of our international logistics infrastructure, our designs can go from sketch to shipping in really record time. That's a product developer's dream,” Walters said.

Home Meridian International, formed in the September 1, 2006 merger of SLF and Pulaski Furniture, is a top 20 furniture manufacturer and importer, based on Furniture Today's Top 25 list. The strategic marketing units of Home Meridian International include Pulaski Furniture, SLF (Samuel Lawrence Furniture), Solutions (mass merchants division), and Creations (a new juvenile division).

SLF, with offices in Phoenix, AZ; High Point, NC; and Dongguan City, China, is a global, multi-divisional, design, sourcing and marketing company that is a leader in shipping full and mixed containers from inventory in China directly to major retailers in the United States.
